

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

THE wedding of Miss Sarah Elizabeth Cottrell and Dr. Harry Fletcher White, of Wachapreague, son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. White, of Norfolk, was celebrated last evening at 8:30 o'clock in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Cottrell, of 1500 Grove Ave.

Rev. M. L. Colonna, of Park Place Methodist Church, performed the ceremony in the front drawing-room, which was beautifully decorated in green and white, as was the whole lower floor and hallway. Jars of Easter lilies tied with bows of white tulle and a profusion of palms being used. Evergreens and lilies were banded behind the altar, and the illumination was furnished by white wax tapers in crystal candelabra.

Mendelssohn's wedding march was played as a processional, and the screened orchestra played softly during the ceremony.

Leslie White, of this city, was best man, and Mrs. William Gay West, in her wedding gown of white satin, lace trimmed, carrying a basket of lavender sweet peas, was her sister's dame of honor.

White ribbons to form an aisle were carried by little Miss Virginia Crenshaw in a dainty white lingerie dress trimmed in Valenciennes lace, and Master Benjamin H. West in a white embroidered suit. The bride entered with her father, who gave her away. She was exquisitely gowned in white chiffon cloth over tulle ornamented in hand-made lace and embroidered in pearls. Her tulle veil was caught with lilies of the valley, and her large shower bouquet was of the same flowers and orchids. After an extended wedding trip Dr. and Mrs. White will make their home in Wachapreague, Va.

BEGINS CAMPAIGN FOR 300 MEMBERS

Y. M. C. A. Teams Start Work With Hope of Establishing New Record.

To-day will see the beginning of what promises to be the liveliest membership campaign the Richmond Central Association has ever had. The captains of the ten different teams are getting to work with their men, and the close of the first day is expected to show at least 200 new men.

A large bulletin will be put at the Y. M. C. A. office, showing the number of new members each day, the different teams reporting, so far as possible, each evening. A rolled gold Y. M. C. A. emblem pin will be given to each worker bringing in a new member, and to the member brought in, as a souvenir of the campaign.

More than 100 men have been selected to serve on the different teams. With Lynchburg's example of 400 new members in five days, those in charge of the campaign feel that 300 is not such a tremendous proposition.

Littman, was appointed on ways and means and to arrange a general mass-meeting for citizens along the proposed route. The meeting is proposed to let each township interested in the project vote bonds for securing the road.

MACRAE CAPTURES MAYORALTY PLUM

He Wins from O'Brien in Contest Which Proves Exceptionally Bitter.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] WILMINGTON, N. C., March 24.—To-day in one of the hottest, and in some respects the bitterest, municipal Democratic primary elections ever held in Wilmington, Captain Walter G. MacRae, ex-sheriff and Confederate veteran, defeated Alderman Martin O'Brien for Mayor. He carried three out of the five wards, but only won by 155 majority.

A majority of the MacRae Aldermen were also elected. This political fight marked the warmest campaign Wilmington has had in years, and that is saying much, because Wilmington is an almost incessant hotbed of politics. The fight started when Alderman Martin O'Brien, who had been in the liquor business, and who had led the anti-prohibition forces, intimated that he would be a candidate for Mayor to oppose Mayor

The Democratic nominee will, of course, be elected at the regular election in June, as the Republicans will place any candidate in the field. However, though their election is assured, politics in Wilmington will hardly cease, as a special election for a school tax will undoubtedly soon be called. Money is needed to run the schools their full term next year, the loss of revenue from saloon licenses bringing about this situation.

FALLS BENEATH TRAIN.

Young Flagman Suffers Loss of One of His Legs.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] RALEIGH, N. C., March 24.—Thomas Cowe, flagman on the Seaboard Air Line, had his left leg amputated at Rex Hospital here early this morning as a result of an accident which befell him last night at Apex. His train was picking up loaded tobacco cars at Apex, and young Cowe started to mount a box car as his train moved. He slipped and fell so that a car wheel passed over his leg. Quick signals and prompt stopping of the train prevented the crushing of the right leg also. The flesh of the injured leg was torn by the car wheel from the crushed ankle to within six inches of the hip. Engineer Ernest Horton was in charge of the train.

No More Old Maids.

Where is the "Aunt Maria," who used to help mother with the mending and hand out peppermint drops to the children? She is now a doctor or a stenographer, with her own life to live. Modern commercialism did it.

Margaret E. Sangster has some shrewd things to say about spinster aunts—and bachelor uncles, too—in the April WOMAN'S HOME COMPANION, that will make you sit up and think, if you are one, or have one, or know one.

You will find in this beautiful Easter Number a great story by Cyrus Townsend Brady——which has to do with a girl who captured her enemy in an entirely unexpected way.

WOMAN'S HOME COMPANION gains first attention through its splendid fiction and illustrations. It grips and holds its new friends through the usefulness of its departments. There are ninety-six pages of hopeful, helpful Easter cheer in this greatest of spring magazines—

William E. Springer, who stood for re-election.

Then Alderman O'Brien announced his candidacy, and Mayor Springer withdrew from the race in favor of Captain Walter G. MacRae, who only entered the fight when fifty or more prominent citizens went to his home one night and almost demanded that he become a candidate. With the exception of one other time, when he made a successful run for sheriff of this county against the then Republican ring, which was made up for the most part of negroes, Captain MacRae had steadily refused to run for office. From the moment that Captain MacRae consented to make the race the fight was warm. Much bitterness was displayed on both sides. Open-air rallies were held, and the eve of the election found several monster rallies in progress. While Captain MacRae was not running as a prohibitionist, the saloon folks for the most part lined up against him, alleging that prohibition was being injected into the campaign by those advocating Captain MacRae's candidacy. The race for Aldermen was also exciting.

The new city administration will, however, find itself with less duties to perform than much otherwise was one, because the police and fire departments are to pass into the hands of a commission of five, created by the last Legislature, and over which there was much bitterness, as the bill creating the commission named the commissioners, instead of leaving them to the choice of the people, and the retiring Mayor, William E. Springer, was named as a member of the commission with a tenure of six years. Two of the retiring Aldermen were also named as members. The Mayor, too, will this time be relieved of his managerial duties, as a recorder now holds forth, having been appointed by the last Legislature, and having entered upon his duties about a fortnight ago.

The Democratic nominee will, of course, be elected at the regular election in June, as the Republicans will place any candidate in the field. However, though their election is assured, politics in Wilmington will hardly cease, as a special election for a school tax will undoubtedly soon be called. Money is needed to run the schools their full term next year, the loss of revenue from saloon licenses bringing about this situation.
